BY CRANSTON & NORMAN
144 TRAMER STREET.

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC. 11, 1855.

The bogus Directors of the Newport Gas Light Company have issued a Circular purporting to give a statement of the affairs of the Company for a period of ten months, ending the first day of the present month; this Circular has been sent out to the stockholders, through the Post Office.

We shall not comment upon the figures of this Report, at present,—except to say that they are calculated to deceive,—reserving my remarks, in this connection, which we may do in proper time, to a future occasion.

We will give a sketch of the bogus Directors of this Company, and show to what extent they have a pecuniary interest in its affairs; Henry Bull, when he attempted to get the exclusive control of its affairs, in February last, owned, in connection with his partner, Job A. Peckham, seven shares of the stock. In building the Works a large quantity of materials was purchased of Peckham & Bull, and in the settlement of their account they took four shares in part payment; at the time Bull was made President of the company,—which was done at our particular request, and against the advice of many prudent men, we laboring under the strange delusion at the time that he was a high-minded man,—Lockwood & Co. made him a present of three shares of the stock. Every one will perceive that Bull's stock did not cost him much.

William Finkler, of Milwaukee, a German broker, is another Director; he with his partner, Townsend, made a trade with Lockwood & Co. for some land in Milwaukee, and took a portion of their pay in the stock of this Company. Finkler purchased his stock on speculation; he has never attended any of the meetings of the Directors since last February.

William G. Peckham, of this city, owns five shares, or did own them at the time of the election; he purchased upon the express condition that he should have the wages and carriage of the Company's coal; at the time of the election he blew hot and blew cold, and was entirely willing to go with either party which he thought would be successful, and continue to him the above named emoluments.

Samuel Young, of this city, has stated repeatedly, at the time of the election and since, that he did not own a dollar's worth of the stock; he participated in this dirty work, as a matter of revenge.

Silas H. Cottrell, of this city, did not own any stock at the time of the election, and we do not believe that he ever has owned, bona fide, a single share of the stock; he embarked in this cause to gratify his revengeful feelings, because he was then a member of the Town Council; if his charge is correct, we certainly performed a meritorious work, as almost every one will admit. Mr. Cottrell's reason for participating in this warfare is indeed a very high-minded one, and reflects credit upon his profound intellect, and admirably illustrates the nobility of his nature; it is something to be proud of.

This is a brief sketch of the interest which these bogus Directors have in the Company, the exact manner by which they have acquired it, and the reasons which induced them to pursue the course which they did, all the men who voted with Bull at the election, with the exception of two, perhaps, were our bitter personal enemies.

Bull was asked if he wanted to remove us from office, why he did not take men who were not unfriendly towards us, to assist him in accomplishing his object; he replied that he could not obtain the services of any except our enemies. He told the truth for once, when he made that remark.

This report is signed by Henry Bull, as President, and was undoubtedly written by him, and corrected, grammatically, by Nathan H. Goff, the Secretary. The following is the concluding sentence:—

At the time of the last annual election fears were entertained of an over-issue of stock, arising mainly out of the facts that access to the transfer books was refused to the President of the Company, and that five certificates of stock, duly signed by the President and Secretary, were known to have passed from the Secretary's possession, improperly; the usual marginal reference being omitted, and no record made of the party or parties by whom said certificates were received, or the purpose for which they were designed. But these certificates have been detected, returned, and cancelled, and the Directors now feel assured that there is no outstanding over-issue of the stock."

When Henry Bull penned the foregoing paragraph, he knew perfectly well that he was writing a wilful and malicious falsehood. During the year and a half that we officiated as Secretary of the Company, Bull had free access at any and all times to the books and papers, whenever he desired to examine them; the latter part of December and the first part of January he was in the office several times and examined all the books. Within a few days of the election he called at the office and stated that he wished to take some of the books to his counting room and examine them; we were aware at this time that he was trying on a fierce and unprovoked war against us, so we opened the door of the Safe, and told him to help himself. He took the Stock Ledger, the Stock Certificate Book, and the Transfer Book, these being the only books which related to the stock or its ownership, and they exhibited in plain figures the whole number of shares issued and to whom. He took these books on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, and kept them until the next Monday afternoon, at half past 4 o'clock, when he returned them, without making any complaint, or asking any questions.

Two days before the election, when Bull had been inquiring, if not openly asserting, that there was an over-issue of stock, he called upon us and demanded the Books; we knew that the Books were correct, and we did not intend to allow them to pass into his possession, for we did not know what would be done if he could get them—he was desperate, and determined to accomplish his object, if possible, regardless of the means. We coolly and quietly told him that he did not want the Books for any good purpose, that he had already suffered, with scrofulous sores on his limbs, the parents took him to several doctors, and did all in their power to alleviate him, but he only became worse. A sister of Mr. Barnet, who had been cured of a bad leg by Holloway's Ointment and Pills took the child under her protection, stating she would try what effect a few weeks residence with her would do; no sooner had she got him in her own house than she tried Holloway's Ointment and Pills, they soon caused an improved appearance in the child, and after using them about ten weeks every symptom of his disorder had vanished like snow before the sun,—such is the power of these wonderful remedies!! They will cure all disorders of the skin.

A TEETOTAL MONKEY.—Dr. Guthrie relates the following anecdote of a reasonable monkey: "Jack, as he was called, seeing his master and some companions drinking, with those imitative powers for which his species is remarkable, finding half a glass of whiskey left, took it up and drank it off. It flew of course to his head. Amid their roars of laughter he began to skip, hop, and dance. Jack was drunk. Next day, when they went, with the intention of repeating the fun, to take the poor monkey from his box, he was not to be seen. Looking inside, there he lay, crouching in a corner.—'Come out!' said his master. Alas to disobey, he came walking on three legs—the fore-paw, that was laid on his forehead, saying as plain as words could do that he had a headache. Having left him some days to get well and resume his gaiety, they at length carried him off to the old scene of revel. On entering he eyed the glasses with manifest terror, skulking behind the chair; and on his master ordering him to drink he bolted, and was on the house-top in a twinkling. They called him down. He would not come. His master shook the whip at him. Jack, astride on the ridgepole, grinned defiance. A gun, of which he was always much afraid, was pointed at this despicable of temperance; he ducked his head and slipped over to the back of the house; upon seeing his predicament, and less afraid apparently of the fire than the fire-water, the monkey leaped at a bound on the chimney top, and getting down into a flue, held on by his fore-paws. He would rather be singed than drink. He triumphed, and, although his master kept him for twelve years after that, he never could persuade the monkey to taste another drop of Whiskey."

THE AUSTRIAN MINISTER.—Chevalier Hulsemann, who has for several years past resided in this country as Charge d'Affaires, presented his credentials to the President on Wednesday, and was received as Minister Resident of his Majesty the Emperor of Austria. On the same day Mr. Henry Boeck presented new credentials to the Secretary of State, and was received as Charge d'Affaires of his Majesty, the King of the Belgians.

The truth is that in "Hiawatha" Mr. Longfellow has done for our old Indian legends what the unknown Finnish poets did for theirs; and in doing this he has employed the same metre. Whatever resemblance may be found between "Kelyvala" and "Hiawatha" in respect to the legends is not of his creating. All his authorities are stated in the Notes; and any one who is familiar with the works of Schoeler and other writers on Indian matters will at once recognise the source of the strange stories which our poet has versified. Some men can appreciate no poetry that is not written on the other side of the Atlantic, and it seems to us that the traducers of "Hiawatha" belong to that class.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

CUTT TAX CASE ABANDONED.—The Herald states that in the suit brought by Mr. Ezra Bourne, against the city, to recover back his taxes, on the ground that he was not a citizen of Boston, the city has backed out, and gives the plaintiff judgment for the whole amount claimed, being over four thousand dollars. Would it not be well for the Assessors to find out who are legally taxable, before laying the assessments, "and when found," as Capt. Cottle would say, "make a note on it," and stick to it.—Boston Atlas.

WE are perfectly aware that some persons will say that a portion of these remarks appear to be severe; in reply, we have only to say that if those who may entertain these opinions only knew all the circumstances of the case, and the gross, ungodly and fiendish injustice which has been done us by these men, and if they were acquainted with all the dark stabs which they have made at our character, in a most diabolical and cowardly manner,—such persons would say that we have endured these wrongs in a very patient manner.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS, an un-failing remedy for Scrofulous Sores.—The eldest son of Anthony Barnet, aged 14 of Galveston, Texas, was an awful sufferer, with scrofulous sores on his limbs, the parents took him to several doctors, and did all in their power to alleviate him, but he only became worse. A sister of Mr. Barnet, who had been cured of a bad leg by Holloway's Ointment and Pills took the child under her protection, stating she would try what effect a few weeks residence with her would do; no sooner had she got him in her own house than she tried Holloway's Ointment and Pills, they soon caused an improved appearance in the child, and after using them about ten weeks every symptom of his disorder had vanished like snow before the sun,—such is the power of these wonderful remedies!! The Czar of Russia, while at Odessa, visited the Cathedral, when the following remarks were addressed to him by the Archibishop:

"Pious Sovereign, thou hast scarcely put on the crown of thy ancestor when it has pleased Providence to surround it with thorns. Our bodily eyes are not accustomed to see such unforment sparkle on the head of kings, but the eyes of faith see in it, with piety and respect, a souvenir of the crown of Christ. Has it not been, in fact, such crowns that the most pious kings and princes have worn since David, Joseph, Constantine, Vladimir the Great, and finally Dimitri, our hero of the Dne, and finally thy patron, Alexander Newsky?

"Have courage, and let not thy soul become weak at the sight of these smoking brands," said the prophet to the warrior king Akaz, when the two kingdoms of Israel and Assyria united against him in an unjust war. How closely do those words of the prophet apply to us and our enemies! This unhappy France! Is she not, in truth, the brand which for half a century has carried fire throughout the entire world? And the proud, but to-day abused and jeopardized Britain! What is she, if not the other brand, which, after being extinguished for two centuries, re-commences to smoke in the midst of a yawning gulf? And we also will say with the prophet, "Let not thy soul grow weak at the sight of these two smoking brands before us." At a sign from the Most High the winds abate and the rain falls to fertilize our fields. These brands depart, and Russia, protected by God, recovers itself for the joy of her chisel and for the well-being even of her own enemies.

"Enter, then, O pious Sovereign, the temple where thy august father lately came in the depth of the night to raise towards the tempest and shipwreck. Enter, and in thy turn raise with us thy prayers to the King of Kings for the cessation of the tempest which now rages both sea and land. May Heaven grant that this temple may again see thee knelling before God, but then only to render acknowledgements and to give thanks. Amen."
